Cheryl Cole has revealed that she has never dated any of the British pop stars from One Direction because she is 'too busy' and yet she has been spotted with Liam Payne. The 'Stronger' singer has been noticed hanging out with Liam for many months but a source told The Sun on Friday that she was only dating him because they are 'old friends'. The insider went on to reveal that the 27-year-old beauty has already moved on from Liam. "Cheryl and Liam know each other from way back. Their friendship had never progressed to anything else," a source told The Sun newspaper. The source continued, "As someone who is too busy to date, Cheryl doesn't see that dating Liam can ever be more than just friends, as he is her ex-boyfriend as well." As for the 27-year-old's relationship with Harry Styles from her band Girls Aloud, Cheryl and the singer have been dating for a few months. "Cheryl isn't into Harry and they've had a lot of fights over it," the source said. Another big scandal could happen between Cheryl and Liam in the near future as Liam's new girlfriend Genevieve Kaplan has reportedly been making some "unacceptable" comments about her ex-boyfriend. Liam has denied dating Genevieve, who is the mother of his five-year-old son Bear. "Liam and Genevieve were just friends at first. But the comments about Liam as a parent are completely unacceptable," a source told The Sun on Thursday. The supermodel's relationship with Liam Payne has been a hot topic since she started dating British singer, Liam Payne. The 27-year-old model opened up about the couple's complicated relationship in an interview with London Evening Standard. "I'm not a fan of the public, I'm not that kind of girl, I wouldn't have imagined it [being this public] at all, because as a kid I was so cute," she said. "I'm not a big fan of attention and all that, but at the same time, it's in a good way. I like it, I'm enjoying it and I've

By the late 1800s, Vacaville was a thriving port city with several industries, including rolling and pressing wood, brick making, fruit growing, and distilling. Oil was brought in on railroads. Cattle, horses and mules, and many different types of crops were raised in the surrounding countryside. In the 1850s, the Southern Pacific Railroad built its line through the area in the "California Trail". At the junction of this line with the Sacramento Valley line of the Central Pacific Railroad, a town called Jedediah Smith Junction was established, named after a trapper who had located gold in the Humboldt Sink in 1841. Vacaville was named in honor of the Vacaville Mining Company. Vacaville was built along the tracks, right alongside the marshes of the San Franciscan River. The county seat of Solano County was moved from Danville to Vacaville in 1854, after the area burned to the ground in a series of disastrous fires. The courthouse was completed in 1860, and the completion of the railroad in 1869 brought Vacaville into existence as a busy community, growing with the influx of gold miners and agricultural laborers. The county offices, the Sheriff�
